

Oncology Protocol Challenge

Are you working on an Early Phase Oncology protocol or study concept?

Participate in the Accelovance Oncology Protocol Challenge!

What is the Accelovance Protocol Challenge?

It's an opportunity for a confidential review and discussion of your protocol or concept document. Our experts will review your information and provide a summary of operational, therapeutic, and strategic considerations tailored to your protocol/study concept.

Why should I have Accelovance review my protocol/study concept?

Early Phase Oncology development is a competitive and constantly changing landscape, so having a protocol that is therapeutically attractive and operationally feasible is vital to your success. Successful oncology teams are those that can anticipate protocol evolution and design the most relevant clinical trials. Our expert team of reviewers will ensure your concept accounts for changes in medical practice, takes into account the competitive development environment, and is operationally efficient. This external, objective review is an invaluable service that will increase your chance of study success.

Is there a fee for this service?

Unlike other CROs, Accelovance provides this confidential review and assessment free of charge, with no obligation of future work.

How does Accelovance benefit from this service?

Accelovance benefits from having an opportunity to develop relationships within the Oncology sector and to demonstrate the expertise and up-to-date operational knowledge of our team members.

Have others found Accelovance's information and discussion useful?
